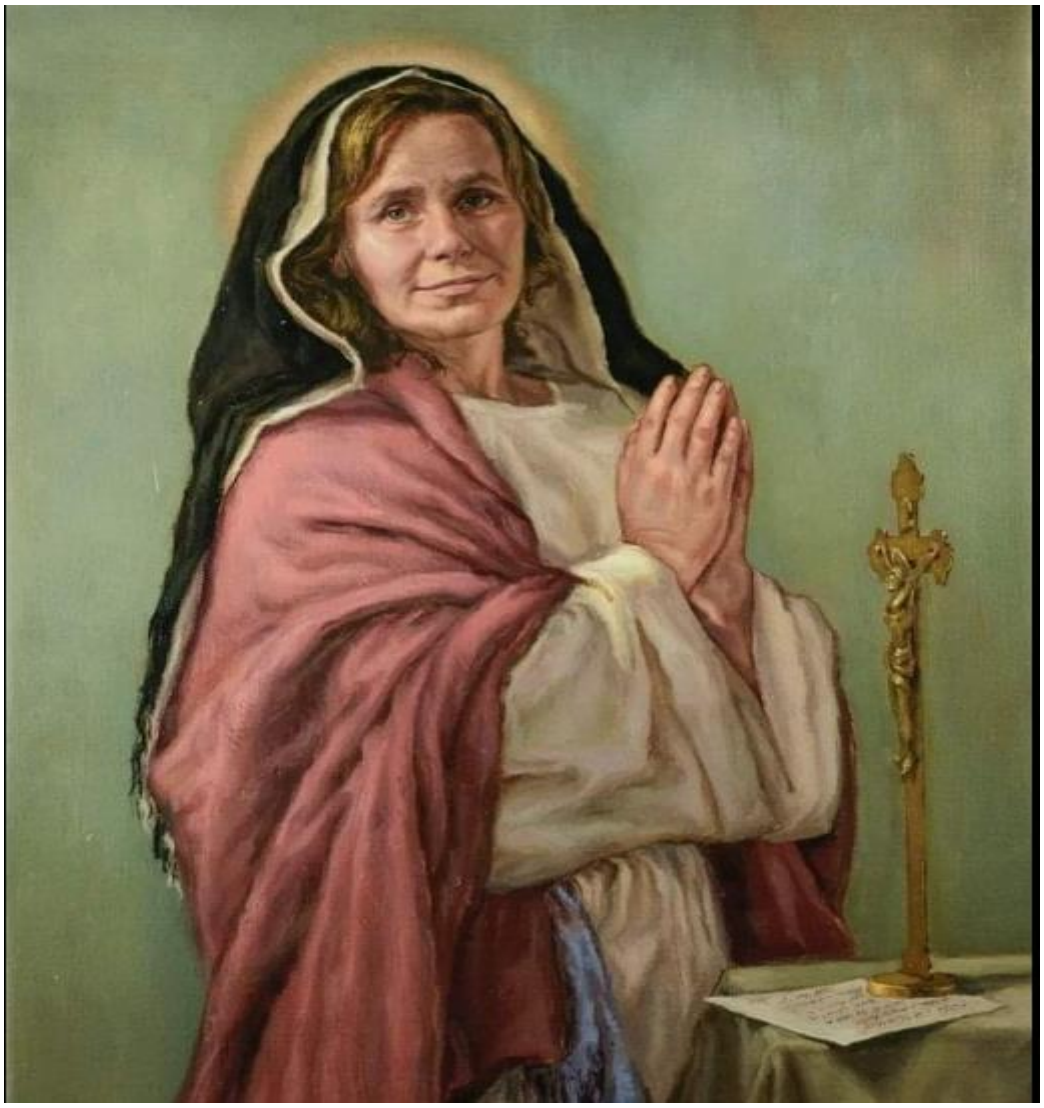
ST.MONICA



Early Life

- ✓ Birth: Around 331–332 AD in Thagaste, Numidia (modern-day Souk Ahras, Algeria).
- ✓ Family: Raised in a devout Christian household.
- ✓ From a young age, Monica was known for her piety, discipline, and charitable nature.

Marriage and Family

- ❖ Married Patricius, a Roman pagan with a difficult temperament. He was often harsh and unfaithful, but Monica endured with patience and prayer.
- ❖ Despite Patricius' resistance, Monica's steadfast faith eventually led to his conversion to Christianity shortly before his death.

- Monica had three children: Augustine, Navigius, and Perpetua. Her most famous child, Augustine of Hippo, initially lived a worldly life, rejecting Christianity and embracing philosophies like Manichaeism.

Struggles and Perseverance

- Monica faced great sorrow over Augustine's lifestyle, which included indulgence and skepticism of Christianity.
- She prayed fervently for his conversion for many years, often following him across cities to guide him spiritually.
- Her persistence paid off when Augustine was baptized by St. Ambrose in Milan in 387 AD, a turning point that shaped him into one of Christianity's greatest theologians.

Death and Legacy

- Monica died in Ostia, near Rome, in 387 AD, shortly after Augustine's baptism.
- She was buried there, and her relics were later moved to the Basilica of Sant'Agostino in Rome.
- Feast Day: Celebrated on August 27 in the Catholic Church.
- Patronage: Married women, mothers, victims of abuse, alcoholics, and those praying for the conversion of loved ones.

Significance

- Monica is revered as a model of Christian motherhood, embodying patience, prayer, and faith in the face of hardship.
- Her influence on Augustine was profound—without her persistence, Augustine might never have become the towering figure in Christian theology that he is today.
- She remains a symbol of hope for those enduring family struggles, showing that perseverance in faith can lead to transformation.
